To Have Its Consistency Severely Tested.

ENFORCING NEW TARIFF

FAVORED-NATION CLAUSE IN FORMER TREATIES

With Countries Which It Was Absorbed Contain Clause and United States Has Been So Treated.

The German empire is to have its consistency tested very severely in the enforcement of the new German tariff, which goes into effect March 1, 1986. On that date all commercial treaty relations between this country and Germany will cease, unless the United States should, in the meantime, negotiate a commercial treaty with Germany. But the German government, in spite of the attitude of this government, has always maintained that the "most favored nation" treaty of 1828 concluded between the United States and Prussia, the treaties containing a similar clause concluded with the Hanseatic republics of Lubeck, Bremen and Hamburg in 1827 and with the kingdom of Hanover in 1846, remained in force after those independent nationalities were absorbed by the German empire. The claim has been made that the German government has always, in pursuance of that interpretation of the situation, given to the United States the lowest rates of duties on imports in the German empire that have been accorded any other coun-try. Under this claim the German government would have given the United States the lowest rates of duty even if the Dingley law had not provided specifically for a reciprocal arrangement by which certain importations from Germany should be given preferential rates in exchange for having American goods imported into Ger-many at the minimum rates of the present German tariff.

That Treaty Will Expire.

But that arrangement was made under the commercial treaty of 1891-1894 and as that treaty will expire March 1 next the present treaty arrangements made under it will expire at the same time. Unless a treaty is negotiated in the meantime this country and Germany will be without any special treaty arrangement. But on that date the new German tariff will go into effect, which makes maximum and minimum rates. The maximum rates are to apply to countries that fail to negotiate commercial treaties giving to German goods the advantages equivalent with those of the minimum rates of the new German

It does not seem probable at this time that such a treaty will be negotiated with Germany by this country. If there is no such treaty March 1 next the German government will have to do one of two things. It will have to grant discriminating duties against the imports from the United States or else declare that the old treaties made by the nationalities which she has absorbed are still in force and that under them the "most favored nation" clause guarantees to the United States the right to import goods into Germany on as low rates as are accorded any other country.

That may be a bitter pill for the German government to take, it is declared, in view of the fact that the United States has as consistently claimed that the Ger-man empire did not inherit the treaties made by the United States with the countries that have since been absorbed by clearly taken that position, but she today grants to Cuba a duty 20 per cent less than that accorded to the beet sugar of Ger-

German Government Will Be Embar-

The German government, according to re ports that have been received in this country, will be embarrassed in adopting such a course, even for the sake of consistency, because of the strength of the radical agragrian party in the reichstag, which is endeavoring to enforce the discriminatory s against all countries, and they show no intention of making the United States an exception, that do not grant to German imports rates of duty equal to the minimum

A MEETING HELD IN THE TEN-DERLOIN DISTRICT.

Many Sinners Were Present-To Be Incorporated for Benevolent and Rescue Work.

Bacchanalian songs and noisy orgies mingled with the sounds of gospel hymns and devout prayers last night in Washington's tenderloin district. This unusual and strange combination resulted from the holding of a midnight salvation and rescue meeting in on- of the former worst bagnios in the red light district by a band of Christian workers connected with the Gospel Army.

The discordant noises of the street were made by night rounders, many of whom were unsteady from being too deeply in their cups. Some of the intoxicated individuals paused long enough to gaze through the windows of the 13th street house for a moment at the Christian workers, and then passed along. Others entered the place and appeared to be interested in the proceed-

A few of the liquor and sin-sodden habitues of the disorderly section even went down on their knees in prayer, and Rev. James M. Little, one of the leaders of the meeting, said there were two or three of the number turned from their sinful ways to Christianity.

Feature of the Gospel Army.

These midnight meetings in the dives of the city are said to be a feature of the Gospel Army, an organization of Christian Endeavorers recently formed, and which will be incorporated here tomorrow, it is said.

The head of the association is Rev William E. Mobley, a tall Mississippian, recently from that state, who appears to be very much in earnest in this rescue work in the slums. Associated with him are Rev. James M. Little and Rev. James M. Belt, evangelists. These three ministers will also appear on the records of the local courts as the incorporators of the Gospel Army, when the papers are filed at the city hall tomor-

"Our objects," said Rev. Mr. Mobley. "are for the support and promotion of be-nevolent religious services; to visit and minister to the sick and care for widows and orphans; to rescue the fallen; to open up and maintain temporary relief stations for the homeless and needy; to do those things needful for the promotion of religion, morality and charity and generally to do all the good we can.'

Headquarters to Be Here. The national headquarters of the Gospel Army will be located in this city and branch societies will be established here

The soldiers of this army will wear dark blue uniforms, and the insignia of the United States army will be followed without infringing too much on the army uniform. Rev. William E. Mobley, as commander-in-chief of the Gospel Army, wears an epaulet with four golden stars in it, while on the collar of his blouse are the letters "G. A."

It is announced that the Gospel Army will hold open-air meetings every evening at 7:30 o'clock at the bridge leading to the Nat!onal Guard armory, on Pennsylvania avenue between 7th and 8th streets north-Tomorrow and on future Sundays meetings will be held at the same place at 11 a.m., 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. The army is said to be interdenominational, and its leaders will administer the sacrament and baptism in any form the convert desires. "But," said Rev. Mobley, "we are Arminian in our doctrine, or like the Methodists. We have already scored thirteen conver sions in this city.

TRADE AT BALTIMORE. Conditions Reported Active by the Dun Agency.

Special Dispatch to The Star. PALTIMORE, Md., August 23. - R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade for Baltimore, issued today, states: "Wholesale trade for the week has been very active and the retail outlook for next season appears exceedingly good. Local business in dry goods at wholesale is picking up and the number of visiting buyers in the market is very large. Clothing manufacturers continue to receive liberal or-ders and cancellations are as yet small. Millinery houses are having their fall open-ings and anticipate a prosperous season. Conditions in skirt, cloak and suit trade are unusually favorable, though there is some complaint as to the extraordinary scarcity of woolens. "Manufacturers of umbrellas report bilstness active with good collections and few failures. Jobbing business in boots and shoes is improving, with prices very firm and collections good. The leaf tobacco market is unchanged, with but limited offerings, and prices continue high.

"The harness season is just opening and dealers report liberal orders, with prices strong and collections prompt. In paper and stationery at wholesale, prices are unsteady and business only fair. Lumber dealers enjoy a large trade, with liberal receipts, and values are very firm. In fur niture, orders from out of town are improving in volume and collections are fair. Dealers in machinery and supplies are doing an active business. There is a better demand for drugs and chemicals, both locally and on the road, and collections are good."

Labor Leaders Propose to Make Maine Their Battleground in the Coming Campaign.

Special Dispatch to The Star.

ROCKLAND, Me., August 26.-Samuel Gompers of Washington, president of the American Federation of Labor, delivered an address before one of the largest meetings which has ever been held here tonight. The heads of organized labor have been making a determined attempt to arouse a united labor sentiment in Maine. which has been the poorest organized state in the Union. To this end. Stuart Reid of Chicago, a representative of the American CONDITIONS COMBINED AGAINST Federation, has been in the state for sev eral months engaged in organizing unions in every place. It is stated by the heads of the labor movement that they propose to make Maine their battleground in the coming campaign. In pursuance of this policy Samuel Gompers has been in this state for the past week, addressing labor meetings at the larger cities. Thursday he spoke at Bangor, Friday at Vinal Haven and tonight he concluded his labors, ad-dressing the largest meeting of his journey

Rockland turned out well to hear him. Saturday night, that night of all nights, when the working population is at liberty, he took for his time, and although in other places the meetings have been poorly attended, here a large and enthusi astic crowd was assembled to do honor to abor's leader. Although Mr. Gompers mild in delivery and his speech did not at tempt to arraign the captains of industr with fierceness, he made a number of striking statements and defended the cause of organized labor in sweeping terms. Mr. Gompers and the other heads of or ganized labor have in mind a great plan of unionizing New England, and it is authoritatively stated that this work of Messrs. Gompers and Reid is only the preliminary step. The labor leader was very favorably received in the Limerock city. His speech reflects the ideas of those high in the councils of labor.

Main Points of His Speech. The main points of Mr. Gompers' speech were as follows: Ever since the world began men had tyrannized over each other. Some were strong and some were weak. Even within the lifetime of those now living this had been done to a greater or less degree, but the men and women workers of the world were rising. They want more of the wealth which they produce. To be sure, he said, when they got what they were after, they would want still more. Some interests show a desire to crush out the spirit and strength of labor unions-the desire of the working peo ple for a higher and better life. To those who desire to crush out the spirit and lib efty of the people it may only be said that they have begun too late. If the best results in the intellectual growth of children are to be assured, one must begin with the grandparents. Those who wish to promote this feeling should have begun with the

The people have no free speech, ho free press, no free meet-What does the wealth of their opprssors bring to them but a curse? It is the purpose of unionism to make the guide of the people that great magna charta, the Declaration of Independence. It is not its purpose to harangue against accumulated wealth. People do not like to be called from bed at night by the sounding of the fire alarm, but they would rather be called out than roasted in their beds. The labor organizer does not make condinowever, sound the alarm against condithemselves. There are certain people who would pray for the working people at least five minutes out of the week and sit on them the rest. Are the Astors, the Van-derbilts, the Rockefellers or "Fellers" by any other names interested in preserving the freedom and principles of the counry? No, it is the millions of wealth producers who always have been, and always will be, forced to fight for their liberties that are interested in that freedom and Legislatures and Courts. Legislatures and courts have been so ccurted, paid and bought that they have proven themselves incapable of dealing with Tomorrow is to Be Fair, With Higher accumulated wealth. It has remained for trades unionists alone to bring corpora tions to a realization that there is a power worthy of their attention and with which they must deal. And the labor unions ask no favors, but do demand that justice shall be meted out to us.

Men in associated efforts are judged by their best efforts. Nobody thinks of judging the work of the churches by the hypocrites Speak of trades unions and those concern ed are judged, not by the good they have done or propose to do, but by the popular idea of the swaggering walking delegates A few of the organizers are not what they ought to be, but as a class, man for man, there are no better men in any profession, no calling excepted. Only one little feature of the good done by the unions is the doing away of the working of women in the mines, where, stripped to the waist, they performed work which is now done by mules. Had we done nothing else than to rescue women and children out of the clutches of these monchildren out of the clutches of these mon-sters who know no good but the almighty dollar, then we should have justified our minimum of the clutches of these mon-states. EGGS.—The market continues in firm condition on strictly fresh stock. Leaving that grade, however, there is an indifferent demand owing to the fact that prices have now reached the point where cold storage speculators can dispose of their holdings at a profit and they are arging sales at every opportunity. Owing to this condition it is hardly reasonable to expect further advance at the present time. Nearby, fresh Virginia, 21½a22c.; Western time. Nearby, fresh Virginia, 21½a22c.; Western time. the relief of the destitute.

Count Romanones, minister of agriculture, has just concluded an exhaustive personal inquiry in the destitute districts, following on the relief fund of $800,000 voted by the government. His report creates the impression that heroic measures for relief are essential. The count journeyed from end to end of Andalusia and everywhere in the four provinces comprised therein he was confronted with pictures of desolation.

The Famine District.

The territory most stricken forms a circle embracing Seville, Jerez, Cadiz, Malaga and Cordova, where natural forces appear to have combined against the people's welfare. The rivers for years past have been gradually filling with sand, preventing navigation and hindering commerce. The district always has been dry, but this year a two months' drought, beginning in the spring, destroyed all hopes for the reaping of crops and rendered the landscape practically a desert, resembling portions of Morocco. The population is almost entirely composed of day laborers who depend on agricultural employment, and when that fails, which is a frequent occurrence, though more marked this year than ever before, practically everybody is thrown into a condition of indigence.
